

Robert Chu, L.Ac., QME, PhD

Robert Chu is world renown as an exciting, engaging and articulate presenter. As a native English speaker who bridges East and West, his teaching style is accessible and easy to assimilate.

Dr. Chu has been practicing martial and Chinese healing arts since childhood and specializes in Master Tung's Acupuncture and Optimal Acupuncture methods for treating pain, neuro-musculoskeletal disorders, and internal medicine problems. Dr. Chu is a graduate and Diplomate in Tung's Acupuncture under Dr. Young Wei-chieh of the World Association of Tung's Acupuncture.

In mid-2005, he founded ITARA (International Tung's Acupuncture Research Association), a non-political organization devoted to the preservation, standardization, education, and research of Tung's Acupuncture, offering classes for the spread and advancement of Tung's Acupuncture.

In July of 2004, Dr. Chu was selected as the Acupuncturist to Olympic athletes at the Olympic Trials held in Sacramento, CA. He has lectured throughout the United States, Canada and Europe on Master Tung's Acupuncture. Proceeds from his seminars help pay for acupuncture and herbal services for those in need with Cancer and Parkinson's disease.
